Presidents Corner

Are you involved?

In looking for activities to do, do you find yourself coming up blank? I know most of us plan rides and outings, but are we involved in our communities? Looking for folks to join our fun, we should think about other activities that would attract people to what we do. If we do the same thing all the time, it will get boring and people will stop coming.

So how do we change things up a bit? I know most of us are involved in other organizations and do things with them. Sometimes they, too, come up short in the volunteer area, just like we can. So why not use those other activities to highlight EWMA?

This weekend, I volunteered to help with posting flags on veterans' graves in recognition of their service to us. For my VFW post, this is a large-scale event. We do 20 cemeteries and 1,000+ flags to be posted. Then, after Veterans Day, they all need to be collected. How about we show up wearing our EWMA gear and help out? Some groups have motorcyclists who look for things to do just like us. Why not invite them along on our gatherings, rides, rallies, and more? If we can show our motorcycles at the same time another plus for us.

This event also gave me the opportunity to learn who was part of our history. In Arkansas, we have a lot of history. On some of the graves were markers indicating those who fought for the Confederate States of America during the Civil War. There were markers for just about every war or conflict the U.S. has been involved in. The people buried there were part of making that history. Some markers even mentioned the battles where they died. Had I not taken part, I would not have had this privilege and honor.

So, when I ask, "Are you involved in your community?" how do you answer? I hope it's yes and you highlight EWMA every chance you get. You don't find new members in the same places. Try something new, the reward can be more than you expect.

Rendezvous Points of Interest

National Museum of the USAF - Dayton

1100 Spaatz St.

Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio. 45431

nationalmuseum.af.mil

(937)253-46229

This attraction offers free admission and spans more than four huge hangars. You can tour the inside of at least two presidential airplanes.

Portsmouth Flood Wall Murals

626 Front St.

Portsmouth, Oh. 446622

portsmouthmurals.com

Mostly along the banks of the Ohio River, taking you to the town of Portsmouth. You have 2,000 feet of flood walls with murals commemorating different groups in society. But the murals are not limited to the flood wall but are also scattered around the town.

Fort Ancient

6123 Ohio Rt 350

Oregonian, Ohio. 45054

ohiohistory.org/fort ancient

Ohio has a few areas where native Americans have constructed large earthen structures called mounds. Recently, some Native Americans have claimed that these mounds were not constructed by Native Americans, raising the question of whether they could have been built by alien beings. But the museum does a good job of depicting the hardships native Americans had to overcome to survive. The location states that it has picnic areas available.

Jungle Jims International Market

5440 Dixie Hwy

Fairfield, OH, 45014

junglejims.com

While only about 10 miles from Sharonville, this place can be a food lover's paradise. They carry all types of food from all over the world.

Explore your culinary tastes with foods and spices from all over the world. Not to mention, they offer special demonstrations on food history, preparation, and care. It's just not your average local mega-mart.

Rendezvous Points of Interest

Loveland Castle

12075 Shore Dr
Loveland, Ohio. 45140
lovelandcastle.com

This castle seems to be born to celebrate the era of knighthood during the Dark Ages. With many different activities going on to help visitors be more interactive. They offer picnic areas.

Frank Lloyd Wright House (Westcott House)

85 South Greenmount Ave
Springfield, Ohio. 45505
Westcotthouse.org

Have you ever wondered what sets an average architect apart from a world-renowned one? Here's your opportunity to find out. You can tour this home to find out what makes the difference between a highly celebrated architect and one that you live in. You can make the judgment.

Cardboard Boat Museum

311 Front St.
New Richmond, OH. 44157
cardboardboatmuseum.com

Listed on GPS about 30 miles away from Sharonville, and a good part of the route I took was along the Ohio River. A quaint little place that may have been an old two-bay gas station has a selection of cardboard boats that were raced on the Ohio River. One has only to admire the creativity and ingenuity of the people who build these boats and the bravery to put them in the water to race them. Wouldn't this be the whole premise and spirit of being an American?

WOW! It's the end of 2025 already!

That means many different things to many people. Another year older, the end of riding season in the colder climates, the Holiday Season, the beginning of riding season in warmer climates, a new beginning... We could go on and on, but what we want to talk about here is a reminder to use your EWMA Benefits no matter what you are doing this year and next.

If you are traveling south for the winter or north for winter activities, remember to use your benefits to save some money. Use the Engine benefit to save money on hotel stays (usually better than any other discount site), as well as discounts on airfare and car rental. If you prefer, save 20% and use the Wyndham Hotels or the Red Roof Inn - Ride, Rest and Repeat program. (Be sure to ask the hotels when you arrive to apply any reward points when using any of our discount benefits). For a very unique experience, try one of our newest benefits and stay at the Big Sandy Lodge Resort located about 2 hours north of Minneapolis / St Paul, MN, where you can book a Lodge Room, Villa (can sleep up to 6), or a Cabin (can sleep up to 15) and get 15% off your stay! Check it out on the Benefits webpage.

Also, don't forget to get The Entertainment Coupon Membership (at 30% off) so you can save money (up to 50% or more) at restaurants, attractions, golf, shopping, and more! The app follows you on your journey, so you can find some discounts everywhere!

Use additional EWMA Membership Benefits by signing into the EWMA website, www.ewma-world.org, and find out what EWMA and Chapter Events might be going on in the area you will be traveling to. As an EWMA member, you can access your Benefits by signing in to the website, but it's up to you to do so. The old phrase, you can lead a horse to water comes to mind. If we don't use these benefits, we could lose them, so take advantage of and SAVE MONEY while having a great, FUN time!

As you probably know, Cheryl and I (mostly Cheryl) work very hard on bringing you an excellent variety of Vendors at Rendezvous. We need you, the membership and non-members alike, to do us a favor and give us a hand. It's easy if we all chip in. The top three things we need your help with are: 1) Continue to be or become a member and come to Rendezvous! 2) Instead of buying from the internet, save buying that thing you don't need right away and get it from a Vendor at Rendezvous! If you need it right away consider buying from one of our Rendezvous Vendors on-line but please let them know you found them at Rendezvous. Who knows, they may give you a show discount. 3) If you know or meet a good Vendor, give us their information and we can contact them and see if they would be a Vendor at Rendezvous.

We hope to see you at the 4th Annual EWMA Rendezvous in Sharonville, Ohio, September 3rd through the 5th, 2026.

Landing Strip Ride

Another awesome day for a ride with a great group. Jim Rich, lead, Chris & Cher on their beautiful Harley, Bob on his quirky trike, and Ted, Beth, John, and Peggy by four-wheel transport. Martin Grade Scenic Byway out to Okeechobee for a great meal at the Landing Strip (the restaurant and the airport's actual landing strip were very busy). The return was down 98 along the lake to Port Myakka, then 76 back into Stuart. Rich's Rebel clocked 151 miles.

'Tis the Season

'Tis the season, and a time for happiness and gifting. One of the greatest gifts of my membership in Eagle Wings is the friends I make along the way. Some, I will never meet in person, but we talk on the phone and find a bond and friendship. Others, we see at rallies or at Rendezvous, and we have the opportunity to get to know them well.

Meeting these friends gives me the opportunity to extend an olive branch on occasion. This is the season when people are travelling, heading to destinations, and some may even pass by where you live. I had that opportunity recently and offered my home as a place to rest on a friend's way to their destination. An opportunity to let them into my home, do something special for them, and expect nothing in return.

We never know what tomorrow holds, and this is the season to be so thankful for so many things. Being able to offer a friend a rest stop was just that. A gift from the heart because I could. This holiday season, I would like to take the opportunity to do this as often as I can. In fact, not just during the Holiday Season of Thanksgiving, Christmas, but even into next year. In EWMA, we meet so many new and adventurous friends. Being able to do something for them, nothing expensive, nothing seriously out of our way, just that gentle reminder we care.

For this holiday season, I would like to wish each and every one of you a Merry Christmas, Happy Hanukkah, or a Seasonal Blessing, as you choose. Happy Holidays and may your heart and home be blessed.

Did I Hear Someone Say “EWMA Rallies Are Not Exciting”?

This is one of those stories that should start with, “Once Upon a Time.” (Ha! Ha! Ha!) How many of you have gone to a rally that goes down as one you will never forget? Well, I got that opportunity in October, when I attended the Mississippi EWMA District Rally in Biloxi, Mississippi. On Thursday, the first day of the event, everything was normal. EWMA members were arriving and picking up their registration packets, and some were even registering on site. Vendors were selling their goods, and folks were rekindling old and new friendships. Several folks were even going on guided rides in the Biloxi area.

Well, to cut to the chase, what really made this rally one I will never forget was what happened on Friday night during the costume contest. Oh, the rally theme was “EWMA – The New Frontier.” Well, a substantial number of large and medium-sized green creatures started appearing. Some of which had human people who seemed to have been captured. During one of these groups of aliens up on stage, someone, and at this point, to protect the innocent, no names will appear, set off a smoke bomb. Okay, stay with me. Immediately, the smoke detector on stage activated the fire alarm system. We were all sure this was not part of the plan, but the show must go on. While waiting for the smoke to clear, someone started singing “Y-M-C-A,” and of course, everyone joined in. Have I mentioned that we were at a Community Center? Within about three minutes, law enforcement arrived, and a couple of minutes later, three fire trucks were on the scene. Well, needless to say, we were asked to vacate the building. No one was injured, and to my knowledge, no one was arrested or taken to jail. A few minutes later, we were given the “All Clear” by the fire department. Shortly after, Connie Fego, the Mississippi District Director, decided to call it a night.

That was the most exciting experience that I have had at an EWMA rally, and I cannot wait until 2026 to see what Connie and her great Mississippi District Team come up with to top this FUN and exciting rally.

Indiana Ride-In World's Largest Ball of Paint

The weather was very good (a nice fall day), and everyone had a great time. There was plenty of food for lunch (hamburgers, hot dogs, salads, and fantastic desserts). Following lunch, the ride was to the World's Largest Ball of Paint. Yes, that is true. Everyone had an opportunity to add another layer, and if you painted it, you received a certificate. After the ride, we all returned to the church for (you guessed it) ice cream with all the toppings served by the Indiana District Directors.

There were three states that attended, with a few new members. Special thanks to Lonnie & Karen Hunter of Chapter E, for all they did in getting and setting up the location.

If you get a chance, read the October Indiana District Bulletin for more on the event.

Tech Tip

This month's tech tip will affect everyone who uses Gmail for any reason, so please take heed. Yes, Artificial Intelligence (AI) is everywhere, but not necessarily your friend.

Many of you use Gmail for your communications. Gmail recently snuck in a new setting for your email that you may not appreciate. It allows Gmail to scan your private emails and attachments to train its AI. That means it is scanning all of your email, telling you it wants to help you write emails.

Now, if this disturbs you (it does me), you can turn it off. Here are the steps.

Open your email.

Up toward the top is your settings icon. Click on it.

From the top of the next screen, select "See all settings."

Under the "General" tab, scroll down till you see "Smart features:" (there are some other smart things, those are OK).

Uncheck the check box.

There will be a pop-up with an option. Select: "Turn off and reload."

IF you want to go a step further, you can also (in the same area) select the "Google Workspace smart features."

Click on "Manage Workspace smart feature settings."

Turn off the "Smart features in Google Workspace."

You have the option to turn it off in the other Google products at the same time.

Click the "Save" button.

You are set. One less Snoop Dog in your computer.

*Cheers,
Mike Melton
